Shut up! (a response to a very loud and absolutely disturbing female shouting "Bobiiiiiiiiiceeee" before "can ya tell me what it means, 'to be or not to be'" in "My Own Version of You").

A male voice is shouting "Pretty Boy Floyd" – Bob's reaction: "You got the wrong place... yeah, Springsteen on Broadway played that... you're at the wrong show" (before "I've Made Up My Mind To Give Myself To You").

Well, thank you everybody! I wanna thank you on behalf of my band as well. It's good to be back here in the Big Apple. Uh, the home of, uh, George Gershwin lived here, I know that, Jackie O. Herman Melville was born here. But, uh, talk about the greats, we, uh, Sylvester Stallone is also from here. And if you haven't seen his latest movie, you got to go see it. It's called, what's it called? It's called, "The Last Something." The Last Blood, that's right, Last Blood. I tell ya, it shoulda won an Academy Award, but of course it didn't. Maybe next time. Talk about greatness, there's a Charley Drayton playin' on the drums. And Doug Lancio is on the guitar. Uh, Bob Britt is on the, uh, playin' one of the guitars. Bob, show y'all how to play that guitar behind your head, just put it back, even if you don't play it. There ya go [laughs]. Donnie Herron is playin', uh, steel guitar. Don is from Fort Smith, Arkansas, one of the occult centers of the world. And, uh, can't tell ya how great this guy is, he's been great for a long time, Tony Garnier (before "Every Grain of Sand").

Well, thank you everybody. Thank you for welcoming the band and me. [inaudible] It's nice to play this place. What a beautiful place this is, indeed! I hear the Marx Brothers played here. Yeah, Mae West too. Can't say more about this place than that. Uh, anyway, we're playing here now. Yeah. I wish they was with us, but you know you can't have everything. So, drums tonight: Charley Drayton. You know you really can't have everything [inaudible]. Doug Lancio is playin' on the guitar. Doug, step up and say hello. Bob Britt is on the other guitar. Donnie Herron himself is on the steel guitar. Donnie played with Marvin Rainwater. Don't know if, uh, how many of you people go back that far but, he did. And, Tony Garnier, of course, is playin' on the bass (before "Every Grain of Sand").

*Well, thank you, everybody! And I'd like to thank you on behalf of my band. Nice to be here in Boston: Bunker Hill, Beacon Hill, Blue Hill, all those hills. And what about the Midnight Ride? Yeah! What about, what about that? Midnight Ride of Paul Revere. Yes. I think he made the Liberty Bell. He worked with iron too, ya know? I work with iron myself. Anyway, let's have a cheer for Paul Revere. Yeah! On the drums tonight is Charley Drayton. On one guitar is, ahh, Doug Lancio. He's playin', ahh, this one, or this guitar. Don't wanna get these boys mixed up. And then now there's Bob Britt is playin' the other guitar. Donnie Herron is here on the steel guitar. You been hearing him for a long time. Why, thanks everybody! I'd like to thank you, even, on behalf of my band with whom I. Nice to be back here in Philadelphia: home of the Liberty Bell, birthplace of freedom, oh yeah, Frankie Avalon, and the statue of Rocky, all right, and Philly's Cheesesteak, we're not gonna forget that. On the drums is Charley Drayton [laughs]. Doug Lancio's on one of the guitars, Doug, where are you? Bob Britt's on the other guitar. I'll tell ya, none of these, neither one of these guys has got to burn their guitars up to make a, to make an effect, that's for sure, and they don't break them either. Ahh, Donnie Herron's on the steel guitar [laughs]. Tony Garnier is playin' on the bass. We love to play here; hopin' we hopin' we'll come back (before "Every Grain of Sand").
